

Reading Classics Certification

The Educator's Playbook

Self-Directed Training Module

Course DNA & Objectives

Reading Habits

Cultivating a sustained interest in classic literature.

Vocabulary & Speed

Enlarging lexicons and improving reading pacing naturally through volume.

Cultural Horizons

Widening students' worldviews through historical and cultural context.

Critical Thinking

Fostering creativity and the ability to analyze literary elements and devices.

Classroom Logistics

50-minute continuous sessions (No breaks).

Teachers must open two back-to-back slots together due to the intensive nature of the curriculum.

Target Learner Profile

Demographics

Ages 7 to 15. Advanced language proficiency. Often preparing for study-abroad programs.

Psychographics

Mature, self-motivated, and highly disciplined. Capable of abstract reasoning and discerning truth from opinion using logic. Broader interest in the world beyond themselves.

The Educator's Role

Act as a mentor. Encourage independent practice. Connect classroom literature to the students' real lives and help foster genuine mentorship and friendship.

The Reading Classics certification currently focuses exclusively on the active Levels 1 and 3.

Level 1 Reading Roster

CRITICAL: Both teacher and student must read the texts independently before class.
The live lesson is exclusively for deep discussion, not in-class reading.

The Lesson Blueprint: Phase I

1.

1. Book Cover:

Greet the student, read the cover aloud, and establish rapport.

2.

2. Review:

Activate prior knowledge. Discuss the events of the previous chapters to anchor the timeline.

3.

3. Learning Objectives:

Rapid alignment on the goals for goals for Character, Setting, Plot, and Figures of Speech.

4.

4. Transitional Slides:

Navigate to specific chapters within the text to orient the student.

5.

5. Comprehension Check:

Quick “Pick One” or “Read & Answer” modules to verify the student actually completed the pre-reading.

The Lesson Blueprint: Phase II

6. Characters:
Analyze feelings, actions, thoughts, and traits. Track character evolution.

7. Settings: Identify time and place, and critically analyze the symbolic meaning of environments.

8. Plot: Map the five stages of a plot diagram. Sequence events, identify core conflicts, and track cause-and-effect relationships.

9. Figures of Speech:
Identify literary devices (similes, metaphors, irony, personification, puns) and use them in original sentences.

10. Cultural Backgrounds: Provide historical context to deepen comprehension of the era.

6. Characters: Analyze feelings, actions, thoughts, and traits. Track character evolution.

8. Plot: Map the five stages of a plot diagram. Sequence events, identify core conflicts, and track cause-and-effect relationships.

10. Cultural of Speech: Provide historical context to deepen comprehension of the era.

The Lesson Blueprint: Phase III

Applied Thinking Skills Framework

	Observe/Analyze	Synthesize/Apply	Evaluate/Critique
Characters	What strategies does the author use to make me care?	How can I use this to develop my own characters?	What seems real and true true about them? How are they like people I know?
Setting	What is special about the setting in which I live?	How can I use what I learned to develop settings in my own writing?
Plot	What is the main conflict? What are different ways the character might settle it?	What events brought them to this resolution?	What settlement makes the most sense?

Formative Assessment Matrix

Story Mechanics
